MR. STEAD'S GHOSTS.

That apostle of sensationalism, Mr. W. T. STEAD, has started a " boom" on ghosts. There has of late years been a remarkable revival of credulity, and Mr. Stean would hardly have been the man he is if he had failed to take advantage of it in some form or another. Accordingly he invited the readers of his Review of Reviews to send him any experiences they might have had ghostly communications. The result is before us in the Christmas number of that iournal., which is entitled "Real Ghost Stories." By way of sherry and bitters before the feast the author prints a caution to the render, who is solemnly warned (1) that the narratives had better not he read by any one of tender years, of morbid excitability, or second the completed and a of Mr. Woodin's, where the amount of the Office or about the place. The most feasible explanation is that of organization of the Sib-rian Railway is completed and a letter from Inof excessively nervous temperament; (2) that the latest students of the subject concur in the solemn warning addressed in the Sacred Writings to those who have dealings with familiar spirits, or who expose themselves to the horrible consequences of possession: (3) that as 'the latent possibilities of our countex personality are to imperfectly understood, all experimenting in hypnotism, spiritualism, etc., except in the most careful and reverent spirit by the most level-headed persons, had much better be avoided. Having thus got the mind of the weak and superstitions reader properly attuned, and whethed the appetite of the the agreement was made between the two ment would be glad to sacrifice not only fend to keep the money permanently, and i curious, the ghosts are introduced. In a preface the phenomena of hypnotism, with their suggestions of a double and in some cases treble consciousness are dealt with, the conclusion arrived at being stated as follows:-" Whatever may be the true theory. "it is evident that there is enough mystery so little understood" no one can prove change takes place in Russian policy or some money in order to plunge further. " about personality to make us very diffident! "about dogmatising, especialty as to what is by which mind may be brought into contact aggressive power. "possible and what is not. By all means, but not so open as to take for gospel all the narratives here presented. Mr. STEAD began to ! write his Christmas number in a small country-house among the Surrey hills, the hostess i of which claimed to be possessed of the mover of ampearing in her." thought body." to persons at a distance from her real body, in the act of dying, a time at which the Mongolians failed to provide one. The should have escaped with a sentence of four tion under which the unhappy fellaheen Lamin, who accupied the corner rooms facing and instances of such appearances are recorded. CLUB V. ROYAL ENGINEERS. The above match was played at Happy Valley on the 11th inst., and after a close and exciting game ended in a well earned victory for the Club by two goals to one. The ball was started by Smythe for the Club. and for some time an attack was kept up upon the Club goal, Anderson having to save three or four times but no very dangerous shots. A fine run down the field by Smythe and Cay altered the aspect of the game and they should have scored, but the shot failed to come off, half time arriving with a clean shoet on both sides. "Soon after half time, from a long run on the left wing the ball was very neatly placed in the centre by Dickson, who was playing well, and after a serimmage was put through, first blood for the Club. The Engineers now started in earnest and Loring. Tannahill, and Barker showed loose play on the part of the Club backs the ball while, the reports of bad cotton crops both in some very pretty passing, and after some rather was rushed through by the Engineers, Auderson being run through with the ball; thus equalizing matters. Play now begame fast, and furious Cay, Smythe, Slade, and Wallage putting in good work for the Clab, and eventually Smyth rom a neat pass by Maitland shot a splendid goal. THE REQUIEM SERVICE FOR TH LATE FATHER BURG ! IGNOU! TO THE EDITOR OF THE "DAILY PRESS." SIR. -I read in the Extreme Oriente of the Oth instant that it is in contemplation to hold a solemn funeral service at the Roman Catholic Cathedral for the repose of the soul of the late Very Rev. Father Burghignoli and that the idea originated among a number of the integentlemen's most intimate friends, who wish thereby to signify the high esteem in which they held him. The choral portion of the sevice, it is said, will be taken up by a number of ladies and gentlemen.

Now, it is open to question whether that would be the most suitable and most sensible manifest ation of their good feeling towards the late .rev. gentleman, knowing as a matter of fact that on several occasions, when applied to, the decased refused peremptorily to allow a chier composed of ladies and gentlemen tog ther sing in the church under his care. Whatever may have been his ideas in this respect, and how over good may be the objection to those ideas.

Hongkong, January 1374, 1802. Ir there is one department in the adminis tration of the Government of this Colony which is less open than another to criticism and blame, it is the European section of the Police Force. It would be difficult to find either at home or abroad in any community of similar size a body of men more conscientions and discreet in the execution of their duty, or more efficient in their surveillance of the public interests. The recent augmentation of their strength promise to well maintain the prestige of the force; but there are one or two features of their new abode which must be unpleasant to them. No fault can be found with the many respects life and duty in Hongkong stable could experience. It is time, however, that the attention of the authorities, with whom rests the remedy, was called to the almost utter absence of any form of amusement or recreation provided for the spare respect consists merely of a very small Consul-General at Secul, but the names the last contribution was made some eight years ago, and the shelves of which contain nothing in the way of literature which can be considered liard table. These are found at the Central Station, and obviously must be totally inadequate for the indoor amusement of such a large body of men as are thereto attached. But a more serious complaint is of the fact which some at least of these games might and certainly neither at Shanghai nor Singapore—is there such a neglect of the inter- stoppages gave an actual walking time of 10 hrs. cases the compradore was consulted and his 2,347 Newspapers: ests and requirements of the police. Large cricket grounds are also available for the force and a healthy enthusiasm for the game force and a healthy enthusiasm for the game the Ball proposed to be given at Government is aroused. Naturally no such interest exists House on Thursday next by Sir William and here, and the dangers of the alternative which presents itself to men who have no sport to turn to in their off-duty hours is very manifest. While pointing these matters out as deserving an attention already too ITALIAN AND AMERICAN MARBLE long delayed, we might refer to a grievance which surely can be promptly redressed by police of Hougkong evinced a keen interest in rifle shooting and possessed perhaps some of the best shots who have ever been in the colony. The shooting of course necessitates range, but this was not grudged whilst the ammunition (which the men themselves have to buy) was distributed at a reasonable price. When, however, the cost of a hundred rounds rose from about a dollar and a half to its present price of $2.66 a considerable diminution in the enthusiasm took place, and now the cost of crossing to Kowloon, the incidental drink, and the expense of the ammunition makes shooting, except for a few, absolutely probibitive. This These CHERODTS, made from a fine selected is the more regrettable because whilst denyvery desirable proficiency in shooting in the munition is only $1.59 per 100 rounds and the rifle range is only a three cents 'ricksha fare from any of the stations. We commend these few remarks to His Excellency Sir WILLIAM R BINSON, in the hope that something may be done in the directions suggested for a body of men for whom he has himself expressed unqualified admiration and warm sympathy.

When I saw where the simp was, I remarked to Hougkong Rope Mr. Urquhart that we were in a dangerous position, and on looking over the side I saw Green Island on the starboard bow. I immediately went below, and then the order was given to go full speed astern. I altered the engines, and immediately heard the ship strike. I remained at my post and attented to the engines. The first mate, recalled, said he did not know the ship struck when the engines were put full astern. Witness saw the quartermaster knocking at the captain's door. Witness had never before had any difficulty in getting the captain to come out of his cubin; and witness could not account for the captain not coming out on this occasion. Witness put the engines astern because the ouptain did not come on deck, and he saw the ship would not clear Green Island. By Captain Peacock-I kept a look out in the usual way, walking about on the bridge and watching the steering. The measures I took to should the ship's safety were to put the engines full speed shead and the belig hard a-port to turn the ship round. On this occasion it took eight minutes to turn the ship round. The lookout rang the bell once when some jank were crossing the bow. This signal would mean some dunger on the port side. When the bell rang I found we were clear of the junks, and I saw nothing elso shead. The quartermaster at the wheel did not call my attention to the land being too close at that time. I know it to be dangerous, to go inside Green Island. I had done my best to turn the ship round ten minutes before you came on deck. I did not use the chart after 5 o'clock. Hongkong, 2nd October, 1890. NOW ON SALE IMPERIAL QUARTO. TINGLISH AND CHINDSE DICTIONARY.

WITH THE PUNTI AND MANDARIN " PRONUNCIATION. An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong. For comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are 153 here given in extense. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both pletion, in suites or single rooms; three | the accents being carefully marked on the best displays the success of an attempt to make the of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast marging and vacant spaces which have heretofore charactorized Chinese publications.

To illustrate the vast scope of the work the following facts are submitted for consideration: Chalmers' Vocabulary contains about 16,000 133 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese characters. Again, despite all the grammars and other elementary works as yet published, the quires examples to display the various applihave one general meaning. Of these examples this work contains more than five times as many as any other Dictionary hitherto pub-

For practical purposes the arrangement of pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all 45 Europeans residing in China, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully with which very few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted. To parties resident in England and interested in China it cannot but be invaluable occasion-

It comprises upwards of two thousand large 4 Vols Imperial Quarto, Price, $20. A Large REDUCTION in PRICE is made to Purchasers of SIX or more Copies.
